ashley and robert thigpen karma will catch up with you I am letting the authorities know of my suspicion of you. didn't he die in your care the same week he died you posted pics how you were his care taker. Did you poison him? His real cause of death is because of the beating he got with a shovel to his head by a couple of guys that didn't even rob him and your husband was in jail could've easily hired someone to do this which is horrible my uncle was a great person and didn't deserve this his worst mistake was marrying your mom who was pregnant at the time with bobby's kid. in his obituary it even said he had a diet coke in his hand that's so weird. Then you were buying alot of vehicles a new house and praising your father in law instead of your dad a year latter. This will all catch up to you. I really hope the money is worth a life of damnation.
